

Picturing America

The James A. Tuttle Library is the proud recipient of the National Endowment for the Humanities (NEH) new Picturing America initiative. Picturing America provides an innovative way for citizens of all ages to explore the history and character of America through some of our nation's great works of art.

As one of the over 56,000 schools and public libraries nationwide to receive the program, we now have access to this high-quality, free resource.

The images of people, places and events illustrating American history give our patrons a chance to better understand our country's past and its ideals. What better way to see the courage of a great leader than through Emanuel Leutze's Washington Crossing the Delaware? How better to appreciate the power of American democracy than through Norman Rockwell's Freedom of Speech? These masterpieces are opening our eyes to America's rich history and culture while also providing an introduction to the broader world of the humanities.

For more information on the program, visit the Picturing America web site at: www.PicturingAmerica.neh.gov. Feel free to peruse the site, and check out the images and the great links included. Sit down with your kids and start conversations about the masterpieces included.

Picturing America is distributed by the NEH in cooperation with the American Library Association (ALA).
